One of the houses that stands upon publication the exclusive rights this part of the site for the proposed new year. When asked if he had read of town hall and courthouse will be razed the Waterbury man who was raising and the other two houses will be moved away at an early date; then people will begin to realize that the much-need structure will be soon in course of construction, the proposals now being out for the consideration of bidders. Whether the building is to be of tranite, a combination of brick and tranite, or brick with granite trimining cannot be determined until the bids are opened.

The Waterbury man who was raising the Waterbury for President Taft's dinner which he claimed would be superfor to any the had been shipped from Westerly, Mr. Vose said:

"Neighbors, that fellow, in Waterbury evidently does not know any more about a turkey than you do, for what he says of turkey raising, and the way he is preparing one for the president lial feast, is all folde rol. I'm going to send President Taft as good a tur-

The no of the sale was that it would sold if the town council declined ings, have had all the chestnuts they could if the town council declined a grant permit for removal. Mr. by scale proposes to remove his building to Newton court and Mr. Goldberg intensis to locate his house in Main aftet. The former house can be removed readily and without any public inconvenience of consequence and arrangements have been made with the trolley company so that the public will not be inconvenienced but one day by the removal of the Goldberg purchase.

The house that is to be razed has been known of late years as the Newlon house. It is the old Babcock comestead and when Edward Babcock deeded the house to Christ Episcopal church it was with the agreement that there should be a life annuity to Mr. and Mrs. Babcock of $250. and that the house should never be removed to a new location, but if the land was desired the house must be razed. The town of Westerly accepted the property under these same conditions, with the approval of Mr. Babcock.
